Academics have divided essays into various types and a critical essay is one where you need to critically evaluate information. It is an essential skill that can help you from high school to postgraduate to get good grades. You can use this skill to evaluate literature reviews by following the approach of PROMPT.

Just like SWOT analysis, it is an important technique where you use Timeliness, Presentation, Method, Objectivity, Relevance, and Provenance. Scholars have devised this structured approach to evaluate information in a write my paper.

Provenance

You need to analyze a piece of information like who produced it or where it came from. It can provide useful information later to incorporate in your critical essay. You need to identify the sponsoring body, author, and source of information. You can also apply stable theory and would help you to analyze the value of academic work. It can also be an indirect clue about the reliability of the information. You can also add information about the author or his dedication to the cause.

Relevance

It is an important aspect of quality information, you do not need to identify its relevance rather its relationship. Remember that you only need high-quality and relevant information. Irrelevant information would not help you to conduct a thorough analysis. For example, if you want to conduct an analysis on geography make sure to check its essay writer emphasis and level. You can determine the factor of relevancy by reading a paragraph several times.

Objectivity

It means a balanced or objective approach to find the information as later it would present arguments, evidence, and later to draw a conclusion from the same evidence. You just need to be vigilant in finding objective information based on concrete evidence. If you want to get outside help then do not rely on any cheap essay writing service as it might provide you a low-quality essay. You just need to find a legit academic essay writing service that will provide you work with quality even if it seems a bit expensive.
